

CONVENTION MAY BE THE ONLY SOLUTION

REPUBLICAN LEADERS' CONFERENCE IN WASHINGTON MOST EXCITING.

REPRESENT BOTH SIDES

General Idea is That the Matter Can Be Adjusted at the General Conference of Party.

Washington, Dec. 16.—Two proposals for reorganization of the republican party and to find a basis upon which discordant elements can unite confronted the republican national committee today.

Foremost was a proposal for a special national convention to readjust the system of delegate representation. The other was that the national committee fix a plan of reapportionment for ratification by the republican state conventions.

A resolution for a special convention was prepared by a special committee, which also framed another resolution in accordance with a compromise suggested by Charles B. Warren of Michigan, Borah of Idaho, Hattie of Missouri, who also holds a proxy from Louisiana, Smoot of Utah, and Howell of Nebraska. They went into session early to report later to the entire committee.

Former Governor Hadley of Missouri, member of the special committee appointed last year by the Chicago conference of progressive republicans to make overtures for party reorganization, was not adverse to the committee plan.

Orville McHugh, who represented the Roosevelt forces in the contest preceding the Chicago convention last year, addressed the committee in opposition to a special convention.

The two resolutions finally were presented. The first specified that a special convention should be called "for the purpose of taking such action as shall be deemed advisable in regard to changing the present basis of representation and for the transaction of all business that may properly come before such a convention."

The second was in part as follows: "Confident that the action of this committee representing as it does the practically unanimous sentiment of the republican electors of the country, will be ratified by the republican state conventions, the committee shall forthwith proceed to determine upon a basis of representation in future national conventions of the party, and"

"Be it further resolved, that the committee pledge itself to issue a call for the convention to be convened in 1916 to nominate candidates in accordance with such basis of representation as shall be now determined upon by this committee."

Both resolutions provided recognition of the primary laws of various states and agreed that certificates of election from proper state authorities should be sufficient ground for placing in nomination of delegates on the temporary roll of the convention.

The second resolution also recognizes the methods adopted in California and other states where all delegates are elected by the primary, and declares that the total number named in the call must be chosen by any state which has such a law.

Resolutions were adopted to admit Senator Cummins and Representative Woods of Iowa of the republican congressional committee to the conference.

Chairman Warren of the law committee then moved the adoption of the first resolution proposing a national convention and the debate began.

Senator Cummins appealed for the calling of a national convention. While he did not discuss the alternative proposition of referring a reorganization plan to the states, he believed that such a plan would not impress the general public as strongly as a national convention.

"I realize," said Senator Cummins, "that in the national convention we may encounter danger. We ought to meet face to face like men. If we are brave enough to do so, the principles of the republican party will be placed before the people in a way that will be courageous enough to stand face to face with each other and discuss those principles and what principles we may have in the future. I am not saying here that there should be a general political platform adopted at this special convention, but I do believe that the convention should meet and issue an address to the American people that will produce an effect and bring support to the republican cause that cannot be brought in any other way. If you do not go through this open door of opportunity that is now presented that door may not open again."

Governor Hatfield of West Virginia urged a special convention to be called immediately and suggested that it meet on Lincoln's birthday so that "the republican party might be rededicated to him."

LEGAL FIGHT WAGED AGAINST SYRUP MEN

Committee of Refinery Men Argue Against State Commissioners' Defense Against Corn Syrup.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 16.—Arguments in the case of the Corn Products Refining company against Dairy and Food Inspector J. Q. Emery, to restrain enforcement of the 1913 statute requiring the use of the word "glucose" on packages of so-called corn syrup shipped in interstate commerce for Wisconsin consumption opened before Judge A. J. Sanborn in the United States court here today.

The arguments centered on motions made by the company to have struck down from the commissioner's answer certain claims put up by the defense. The committee declares it can label its product 85 per cent corn syrup and fifteen per cent cane syrup and comply with the law. The commissioner maintains that this cannot be done as the ingredient called corn syrup is ordinary commercial glucose and is not pure.

The committee needs more funds.

THE DOUBLE BLESSING

The gladdest day of all the year is Christmas day. And the reason why is because the spirit of the Master is abroad in the land, and willing hands, prompted by loving hearts, are doing His work.

Your home and mine will share in thoughtful remembrance and the glad "Merry Christmas" will ring through the house on Christmas morning. But there are other homes where good cheer will be a stranger unless you and I come to the rescue.

It is an old saying that "it is more blessed to give than to receive," and it is wonderfully true. If you are looking for this kind of a blessing just now, send your money and gifts to the Gazette office and the paper will help you find it.

ELIHU ROOT WILL NOT AND CAN NOT ACCEPT PROPOSAL

U. S. Senator Declares He Is Too Old to Run for Affair of Nation—Spurns Nomination.

Washington, Dec. 16.—Senator Root declared in the senate today that he could not and would not accept the republican presidential nomination if it were offered to him.

"My friends who have made these kind suggestions," he said, "would not notice the nomination to a close. I will have reached the age of 72 years; that before the next administration could complete its service I would have reached the age of 74."

"It would be manifestly impossible that I should be president of the United States. I could not render service. I would not undertake it. I would not accept the nomination and I could not accept the office."

"Suggestions of political advancement for me," said Senator Root, "are merely expressions of friendship and appreciation from my friends. My political and public career is now drawing to a close. No political ambition whatever finds a place in my mind. I look to the younger men about me to whom the duties of the office are due, to fill the advanced places in the future."

There were no particular subjects of pressing importance, it was said, which required a cabinet meeting. It was brought about by the president's desire to get in touch with department heads again after a week's isolation from official business.

ARSON SQUAD FIRES LIVERPOOL CHURCH

Militant Suffragettes Smash Glass to Set Fire to St. Anne's Church Causing Great Damage.

Liverpool, Eng., Dec. 16.—The suffragette arson squad today did extensive damage to St. Anne's church here. The stalls on the south side of the church were destroyed and the splendid organ was seriously damaged. Enormous quantities of stained glass windows, which the incendiaries smashed.

The usual suffrage literature was left scattered about the place to indicate that the fire was intended as a protest against the government's treatment of Mrs. Pankhurst.

GOMPERS URGES THE MEASURE'S PASSAGE

Wants Bartlett Bill Passed As Part of Anti-Trust Program.

Washington, Dec. 16.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor today urged the house judiciary committee to adopt the Bartlett bill as a part of its anti-trust program. The bill would exempt from prosecution persons engaged in seeking employment who enter into any combination or agreement to lessen hours of labor, increase wages or better conditions. It also provides that no combination or agreement among persons engaged in horticulture or agriculture shall be unlawful when made to enhance the price of agricultural or horticultural products.

The rights of courts to issue restraining orders or injunctions in labor cases was limited.

Mr. Gompers said he was confident that the present attorney general was not going to proceed against labor organizations.

"But who knows how long this administration is to last? he inquired. "We don't want to exist at the whim of any officers; we have a right to exist."

President Samuel Gompers told the house judiciary committee today that while the number of men out of employment in the United States might possibly be a trifle less, he believed it was "due to the transition we are in rather than to any real depression."

Attachments to recover the amounts asked and the cost of the proceedings have been placed on the Eddy property in Mr. Eddy's possession.

PERMIT CHILDREN TO WORK ON STAGE

Judge Ben Lindsey Defends Stage Child's Work Under Proper Safeguarding by Law.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—"Children should be permitted to work on the stage under proper safeguard," Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver told the Drama club here.

"I have seen factory children who disliked the life, but I never saw a stage child who didn't want to remain in the profession," Judge Lindsey said.

"I suggested that the proper supervisory body should look to the interests of the stage child—see that he or she has a fair salary, schooling, proper rest, carefully selected quarters at hotels or boarding houses, and that the youngsters' salary is invested for his benefit rather than to support his adult kin."

CHURCH FEDERATION DECLARES VICE WAR

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 16.—An ambitious program for elimination of vice in this city has just been announced by the church federation. It calls for elimination, not segregation of the federated social workers have through investigations, become completely converted to the necessity of complete elimination of the social evil.

But the most difficult task still confronts the church federation and presiding officers of the various churches. They must not be burned into the street without means for earning an honest livelihood. Every woman desirous of quitting a life of shame should have an opportunity afforded. The first duty is to care for the inmates of the houses.

PROGRESSIVE PARTY NAILING PLATFORM FOR NEW ELECTION

Progressives Meet at Chicago to Name Complete Ticket for Sweeping Campaign Refuse to Unite With Parties.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Representative members of the progressive party from nearly every county in the state gathered here today to confer on the plans for the future with particular reference to the elections of next year.

Before the meeting adjourns it is planned to select a candidate for the United States senate and to perfect plans for complete tickets in every county and in every senatorial and congressional district next year.

The day's program calls for an executive session of the state central committee, a reception and luncheon at the Chicago Progressive Club, a conference with the chairmen with the state central and county committee men, a reception to visiting women at the Progressive Club and a rally at night.

The keynote was sounded by Raymond Robins, chairman of the state central committee, who declared against amalgamation with either of the old parties and predicted victory in the spring election. This sentiment was repeated by the speaker, former United States Senator A. J. Beveridge of Indiana.

"No amalgamation, no merger, no concoction of any kind with any other party," he declared, "is the keynote of our platform. For every man we lose by such a course of honor we will gain scores of better men."

"Every cause must have its Benedict Arnold, but you cannot lose him. Our need of the hour is organization. Every county should be carefully and thoroughly organized, precinct by precinct. A full county ticket should be put in the field throughout the state."

In his statement to the delegates Mr. Robins declared that "you cannot pour the new wine of the economic and social life of 1914 into the old bottle of 1860."

Continuing he said: "We are charged as the representatives of 386,478 voters of Illinois to maintain and develop the political entity of the progressive party. We are to stand for their political will. We scout all amalgamation schemes for compromise with either of the old boss-ridden parties."

"The time is ripe for a progressive victory in Illinois. The promises of the national and state administration are being compared with their performances and both are being found wanting. The people are demanding a change. A full county ticket should be put in the field throughout the state."

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM IS GIVEN BY FORUM

Members Present Prof. Shaefer With Society Pin as Gift—Rusk Meets Under a New Critic.

The members of the Forum Literary Society enjoyed a Christmas program last evening in their regular meeting room at the high school building. At the conclusion of the program President Karl Frick presented to Prof. J. T. Shaefer, their critic, in behalf of the members, a beautiful Forum pin, which has been the society emblem since the organization of the club. Prof. Shaefer responded, thanking the society members for the gift.

Every number of the program was ably given. The order of the speeches and debate followed:

Holl can, answered with a suitable Christmas present for some certain member of the club. The answers were all of a humorous nature.

"Our First Remembrance of Xmas"—Lyle Beard.

"A New Version of St. Nicholas"—Karl Frick.

Debate—Resolved, That the SPUG society is justified in its purpose, or that the present system of giving useless Christmas presents be abolished. George Spohn on the negative, presented strong arguments, and won a 2 to 1 decision over Herbert Brownell of the affirmative.

Three new members were voted into the society last evening. They were Herbert Brownell, Thomas Birmingham and William Kober.

Rusk Lyceum.

The Rusk Lyceum met regularly last evening under the direction of a new critic. Although Prof. D. D. Manross had made no decision to become an active critic, he acted in that capacity last evening. Prof. Gay W. Curtis, who has been the club's critic for over a year, resigned on last Monday evening. Once before during the year he resigned, but he returned after the various members had asked him to. His athletic work is too heavy together with the critic responsibility, in his opinion.

The program was entertaining throughout. The debate, Resolved, That the school year should be eleven months instead of nine. Walter Craig, upholding the proposed change, won over Leland Hyzer on the negative by a 2 to 1 vote. The debate was a practical one.

"Progress in Aviation"—Russell Smiley.

Mr. Call was of Scotch descent, and possessed many sterling qualities. His father was a Baptist minister in the early days of Wisconsin. As a veteran of the Civil war, and a member of the first Wisconsin Heavy Artillery, Mr. Call was a faithful soldier.

He was also a member of the H. S. Swift Post, No. 137 at Edgerton, who will furnish the pallbearers for the funeral, and of the M. E. church of Edgerton.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Casson's, of Fifth Ave., Thursday at ten-thirty. Rev. T. D. Williams will officiate. Interment will take place at Edgerton.

Fred Clarke, the Pirate chief, doesn't long very much as a rule to join the social throngs. On occasion and when there's no very graceful way of escaping it Clarke will don his "claw hammer" and mingle with the house-monde of the village. Silks hats, however are his particular aversion. An unfortunate experience with a silk hat last winter convinced the Pittsburgh leader that he had no taste at all for the garb of our nicest people. Being ever eager to please his wife he finally agreed after she had him in a corner to join her in attending a function where the evening gown was the thing.

Not having a silk hat of his own, he was obliged to borrow one off a friend whose head measured several sizes smaller than Clarke's. The hat of course skated about on his head in such a way to cause Fred a little embarrassment. Getting out of the cab upon his arrival at the home of the host he forgot how tall silk hats are and it struck the top of the carriage door, bouncing off into the gutter. When it settled down into a pool of mud, Fred picked it up, viewed it critically and after wiping off a little of the mud placed it carefully on a nearby hitching post. Then he spent the rest of the evening bareheaded and in comfort.

News came of late that Rube Waddell is on the point of death. It isn't the first time that Rube's friends have been told to prepare for the end. Rube has all but died many times before. However, the poor health of the old twirling star is such that when his death occurs it will not be a surprise. Waddell had an unusually powerful constitution before he became the close friend and associate of J. Barleycorn. The many, many pleasant times they have spent together would have long since finished off a less rugged man.

WHITE SOX DEFEAT MILTON HIGH FIVE

Speedy Quintet from Janesville Prove Superior to College Town Preps. — Kennedy a Star. — Score 43 to 21.

Milton high school's prep basketball quintet proved that they were no opposites for the Janesville White Sox five, in a game which was played at the college gymnasium last evening, the final score standing 43 to 21 in the locals' favor. Janesville composed of former White Sox baseball stars, who were champions of this section of the state, played a brand of basketball never before seen on the college floor at Milton. Dalton, player in one high school, whose command, was in a class by himself, and he contributed seven baskets with little difficulty.

In the last half, after Milton gained a little on the locals, Captain Stickney shifted the lineup, by taking himself out and placing "Shrimp" Kennedy in his place, who held his man at all times, keeping the score down considerably.

The lineup and score is as follows: Janesville—Stickney and Kennedy, r. g.; Rau, l. g.; Stewart, c.; McKeligue, l. f.; Dalton, r. f.; Milton—Randolph, l. f.; Randall, r. f.; Lamphere, c.; Curtis, l. g.; Hall, r. g. Baskets—Dalton, 7; McKeligue, 5; Stewart, 3; Stickney, 2; Randolph, 3; White, 3; Lamphere, 1. Free throws—McKeligue, 5; Stewart, White, 6. Referee—Edward Atwood, Janesville. A good-sized crowd accompanied the team to witness the contest.

CHANGE IN SCHEDULE BECOMES NECESSARY

Fort Atkinson and Elkhorn Disagree as to Dates, and Games Are Called Off.—Locals May Play Edgerton.

The Fort Atkinson and Elkhorn contests, scheduled to take place on January 22d and February 20th, respectively, have been called off, unless both these five can so arrange their schedule, so that the games can be staged. The locals want to play both teams, and every possible attempt will be made to fill suitable dates. It is likely that Edgerton may be given a game, as reports from the Tobacco City are that the Edgerton high school have a fast team. The game, if arranged, will be played on the local floor.

No action has been taken on the Belmont situation. The locals have three, and possibly four open dates at present, but Belmont must meet Janesville's demands. If a contest is to be staged.

Coach Curtis has letters from perhaps fifteen leading Illinois high schools, who were all very anxious to play Janesville. Many of the Cook County high schools, such as Chicago, write for copies, but Curtis answers their challenges with the negative statement. He desires to play Wisconsin. Waddell's case calls to mind the fact that the victims of booze in baseball are comparatively few. In other fields of sport it doesn't seem seldom that we hear of a star who has been injured by a blow to the head. Not infrequently prize fighters of repute pass away as a result of an immoderate indulgence in the grass line. But in baseball it is the exception. Waddell, Biggs, Raymond and George McQuillan are a few of those who gained a momentary prominence, but went down three times in the sea of drink. All of them were stars when in condition. The wise ones walk away around the run grooves. The Athletics for example when they trimmed the Giants in the well-known encounter last presented the picture of just that many guys who never touch booze in any form. None of Connie's men look on the wine cup when it is red or any other shade. Players realize that with the same as strenuous as it is today, player's life is plenty short enough. Calling barkeeps by their first names doesn't lengthen it appreciably.

It seems that gameness isn't the requisite of the present-day fighter, as it was of those of a decade or two ago. While the ability to take punishment and stand up under it is admired and applauded today, as it always was, the present scheme of pugilistic things doesn't demand that a fighter have the sand that they had of old. Other days fights were scheduled to go to a finish and forty and forty-five round fights were not uncommon. In fights such as these a man's gameness was given a thorough try-out and he had to have sand to get by. Today most of the battles seldom extend beyond ten or twelve rounds. And the fighters of the present day are so clever in the defensive end of it that they seldom receive a punishment. Perhaps it's better that things are so. The gloves used today are soft compared to those of the old-timers and fighters are so adroit at avoiding their opponents' blows that they receive few marks from an encounter. It is seldom that McFarland, Kilbane, Jack Britton, Johnny Griffith, Jeanette or Charley White leave the ring with a badly bruised visage.

AMBASSADOR DUTIES IN BERLIN DECLARED HARDEST TO SATISFY

United States Fails to Provide for Representatives in Foreign Posts — Ambassador is Successful Diplomat.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Dec. 16.—Justice James Watson Gerard, Uncle Sam's ambassador to Germany, will not be "homeless" much longer. He has found a "home" in which the American eagle can scream without being ashamed. Gerard, who is rapidly being put into shape for occupation of a real estate agent has pocketed a fat salary and a landlord—or rather a landlord—is happy to have so profitable a tenant.

Because of the parsimonious policy of the richest country in the world to pay rents year after year for embassies instead of owning them as is the case with all the other powers, Gerard, of an Ambassador form a most interesting chapter of unwritten diplomatic history that reports itself every time there is a change of parties in the United States, Uncle Sam is known abroad as a "renter" and the term is not nicely applied. Matter how democratic the ambassadors of the United States may try to be with kings and potentates, they are humble slaves to the landlords and real estate dealers, who demand and get obsequious and adulation and what is more to the point, monstrously exorbitant rentals which necessitate Uncle Sam's ambassadors begging deep down into their own pockets for "expensive money."

Have Mary Troubles.

But that is only one of the little troubles that makes the new ambassador or minister regret the contribution he made to the campaign. Ambassador Gerard's demands in the way of a house were modest. Although he pays $15,000 of his $17,500 salary, as rent, the new American embassy would not attract even passing notice for exterior elegance, on Fifth avenue or the principal residence street of other American cities. Gerard's house-hunting troubles, similar to those of Page in London, Penfield in Vienna, where the American embassy is still in a hotel, and of Minister Popkiss in Bucharest and of the new ambassador to St. Petersburg.

Many Failures. Berlin is looked upon as more or less of a "hoodoo" among Uncle Sam's foreign posts. Probably more ambassadors "fell down" or failed to "make good" in Berlin in recent years than in any other capital. Chancellery Tower was more or less ridiculed, in the American press for his exclusiveness, the social dash he cut and decking himself out in a blue and gold uniform and gilt sword. David Jayne Hill, scholar and statesman of dignity and ability, had not much more than settled himself down before he was called upon to resign. It was said, for a successor who could contribute more to the republican campaign fund. Under John C. A. Leichman, Pittsburgh steel magnate, who was fond of claiming the late J. Pierpont Morgan as his personal friend, the Berlin embassy was virtually ignored by the big American colony because of the alleged anti-American attitude of Leichman's wife and two daughters. Perhaps under no ambassador was the American embassy as unpopular with Americans as under Leichman. Suits and charges in New York and Paris gave rise to reports that he was using his official position with advantage in speculating on the stock market. The engagement and marriage of his daughter, Nancy, to Duke Karl of Croix, made much talk and incurred the displeasure of the Kaiser who failed to receive Leichman in the customary farewell audience and did not give him any token of his regard as he did Hill and Tower.

Question of Money.

The post of ambassador in Berlin is one of the most difficult in the American diplomatic service. It requires more than mere statesmanship to fill it to the satisfaction of all concerned—the president, the American people, the American colony in Berlin, the Kaiser, the Kaiser's court, the diplomatic circle and society. If he is reserved and exclusive he is declared a "snob" and "un-American." If he is democratic even some Americans call him "common" because he receives those beneath their particular set. If he lives in accordance with Jeffersonian simplicity, he is looked down upon by the government, court and diplomatic circles, which affects his standing and that in turn his usefulness. If he entertains as ambassadors of other powers do, and as is customary, he increases his own prestige and that of Uncle Sam but may lose popularity at home where "cutting" is a social dash. If he looks upon more or less as contrary to American principles. If he complies with the rule of the court to wear the blue and gold uniform, he is made ridiculous at home. If he goes to the court in the morning in the Jeffersonian evening dress he is regarded in court and diplomatic circles as a bit "queer." But it easier to please the Kaiser's court than it is to please the American colony and those Americans who sit around European hotels calling every titled person by their first name. For the "privilege" of all this the ambassador pays a nice little contribution to the campaign fund of his party and finds to his surprise upon getting to his post that he is compelled to contribute about $100,000 more annually to maintain the dignity of Uncle Sam.

Success of Gerard.

Ambassador Gerard gives promise of being able to break the "hoodoo" that so long has hung over the post of American ambassador in Berlin. Dignified but genial, reserved but very democratic, exceedingly tactful, a ready speaker and pleasing personality, he has made an excellent impression alike in the Kaiser's court, diplomatic circles and among Americans. In the Mexican situation he has had quick opportunity to show his statesmanship in upon things diplomatic. He has openly announced that he is after the reputation of being the "most American ambassador ever in Berlin," and seems in a fair way of achieving that distinction quickly.

WEATHER FORECAST

UNEXPECTED RESULT OF MOTHERS' PENSIONS.

For something less than half a year the Mothers' Pension law passed by the legislature of the state of Washington has been in operation. An idea of the results of this new experiment is furnished by the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. It has filled the children's homes, that journal says, almost to their limit "through the giving up to institutional charge of the children of unsuccessful pension applicants. Before the passage of the law, mothers strove to hold the children of the family together, knowing that the law granted an allowance for every child; but when the mothers learned that only those in absolute penury would be granted pensions, the family break-up began. Fraudulent representation and even perjury were detected in a number of cases. Then it was learned, besides, that many mothers who needed and desired aid could not bring themselves to the point of asking it. Those states which contemplate a Mothers' Pension Act have a road dead of hard work before them, if such a law is to be administered wisely and well and in the interest of the really deserving.—Christian Herald.

This mothers' pension law is about the only law presented to the Wisconsin legislature, that was turned down, and the state is to be congratulated. If there is anything which encourages shiftlessness and poverty, it is misdirected charity. There are plenty of men in the country now who are willing for their wives to support the family, and a mothers' pension simply adds to the number and encourages the disposition.

There is some argument in favor of old age pensions, for people who are worn out in the service and whose feeble condition renders them helpless. When the government owns the railroads, and everything else in sight, the demand for pensioning will increase fast enough, for the most of us will go to seed working for the worst monopoly that ever cursed the nation.

LACK OF THRIFT.

The army of unemployed men in Chicago, said to be 100,000 strong, is an object lesson which may well be studied to advantage. These men, with rare exception, do not belong to the tramp fraternity. The most of them have had steady employment, at good wages, until recently, and yet a few of them have an overcoat to their name and many of them are sockless and poorly clad. Willing to work, and reckless spenders, they face a winter, after a few days of idleness, without a dollar or a decent garment.

If all of this class was represented by the little army in Chicago, it would not be so bad, but they are fair samples of men found in every community throughout the length and breadth of the land—men who spend more money for booze than they do for bread, and whose pay envelopes never see them through the week. They have no conception of the value of a dollar until confronted with a bread line.

The era of prosperity has been so long continued, that this class of men have not been largely in evidence, but a few days of idleness brings them to the surface. Living up to the income usually ends with a jolt, and there are times when we can afford to profit by other people's experience.

RADICAL VIEWS.

In a signed editorial in his Chicago American, William Randolph Hearst, erstwhile candidate for the democratic presidential nomination and would-be dictator of democratic policies, expounds some doctrines that sound to the average reader as good, sound republican campaign arguments. Mr. Hearst takes to task the administration for their attitude as regards the tariff and monetary questions and decides off-hand that the tariff is to blame for all the evils that may befall in the future.

Perhaps Mr. Hearst is right, but it is safe to say that the tariff revision would not have so seriously affected conditions in the financial world as he would lead them to think. The country would have adjusted itself to the tariff in time.

The real kernel of the whole nut is, however, that the "big business" interests are alarmed over what the democratic majority in congress may attempt next. They feel uncertain how to proceed and in consequence are retrenching themselves to meet any emergency that may arise.

As the big moneyed interests retrench, the smaller ones must perforce do likewise, and while there will be no panic, no real crisis, it is certain to mean a tightening up all along the line that will reach first of all the wage earner and later the business interests themselves.

There is no need for this condition. The country was prosperous, is prosperous, but the uncertainty of it is to blame, not the tariff, not the currency measure soon to be passed, but the fear of other even more radical legislation. Mr. Hearst says in his signed editorial:

President Wilson says: "There is but one cloud upon our horizon," and describes that cloud as our trouble with Mexico. Mr. Wilson evidently is not an expert in political meteorology. There is, perhaps, only one cloud on the distant horizon, but there are several very threatening clouds hanging immediately overhead and casting a very heavy shadow upon the business interests of this country and upon the general prosperity of the producing classes. This heavy shadow, with a prospect even of a serious storm, is due to the president's exceedingly obstinate attitude in regard to the modification of the tariff.

The president is one of those men to whom success gives hallucinations. He has the Presbyterian belief in predestination.

He is convinced that he is the direct representative of the Almighty on earth and that, being in more immediate contact with mundane affairs, his knowledge of them is, perhaps, a little superior to that of the Almighty.

This conviction is not uncommon among men whose sudden rise to the top of the rest of the community. It is to the rest of the community, not only politicians have this obsession, but business men also who attain unusual success or important positions too rapidly.

A conspicuous example of this hallucination was given by George F. Baer of the Reading railroad with his avowed inspiration and his arrogant action by "divine right."

Vanities of this kind would be harmless enough if they did not so often lead men to become inaccessible to facts and impervious to reason and if they did not so often persuade men that their own fallible opinions were direct inspiration from on high, not to be modified or ameliorated by the opinions of other men or the actual conditions which confront them.

The clouds which now hang menacingly overhead and threaten the prosperity of the nation could have been dissipated if Mr. Wilson had taken a broader and more liberal view in his policies of tariff reduction. He should have realized that tariff reduction, however necessary for the benefit of the consumers, must fall more or less heavily and disastrously upon the producers of the country.

He should have appreciated the necessity of compensating these American producers for the markets which they would lose here at home by opening to them markets which he could easily have secured for them abroad.

The reduction of our tariff barrier allows our markets to be invaded by foreign products and our producers to be deprived of a greater or less proportion of our American markets.

If a policy of reciprocity had accompanied the policy of tariff reduction the markets of foreign nations would have been reciprocally opened to the products of our American manufacturers and producers. The advantages gained in these foreign markets would have compensated our producers and, perhaps, more than compensated for the loss of part of their home markets.

Mr. Wilson should realize that the word "producers" does not mean only the big business men who conduct manufactures, but the workmen, who are the partners in this production, and the farmers, who are the most important producers of all.

However desirable it might have been to benefit the consumers, it was certainly as desirable, or even more desirable, to benefit the producers in this country. The greatness of this country and the wealth of this country are due not to what we consume, but to what we produce.

The increase in the creation of wealth depends in great measure upon proper encouragement of production; and the distribution of wealth in good prices to farmers and good wages to workmen is obviously dependent in the first instance upon the creation of wealth through profitable production.

Profits on production depend largely on the extent and excellence of available markets, and any sort of ordinary business intelligence or political intelligence ought to have observed the wisdom of increasing and improving the markets for American products.

In fact the only kind of mind that could not see the practical and sentimental, the material and human advantage of such a policy would be that type which believes itself to be the medium for the direct transmission of divine instructions.

It is certainly not compatible with any moral obligations to consider the material welfare of a country and the financial prosperity of the individual citizen.

The material prosperity of the people is a matter worthy of the attention and consideration of any administration, but particularly of a democratic administration, and Mr. Wilson's policies, no matter how inspired he may believe them, should be executed with due regard for the welfare of the nation and of the citizens.

Indeed, it would be well if Mr. Wilson could realize that no one man is doing God's work on earth, but that all men are doing it, in the place and with the power that God has allotted to them; that vox populi vox Dei; that all men are entitled to be heard; and that the moral and material interests of all are rightfully to be considered and conserved.

Governor Tener is probably worth the $25,000 a year he will get as president of the National league, but a good many people will not believe it unless he improves the quality of the peanuts sold in the bleachers.

Senator Root has been awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1912. That was the year in which he served as chairman of the republican convention in Chicago.

Whiskey is said to be accountable for most of the hunting accidents. Still Maine, where most of them occur is a prohibition state.

Wisconsin farmers are said to have agreed to hold their potatoes for higher prices. Anti-trust officer, do your duty.

It might be a good idea to ship a moving picture film of the Army and Navy football game to the city of Mexico.

New York alone has mailed $5,400,000 to Europe as Christmas gifts. It's a good thing Christmas comes but once a year.

For an off-season, the volume of trade in National league circles leaves no ground for complaint.

As a tourist attraction, the sad, sweet, inscrutable smile of Mona Lisa should be all the better for the vacation.

AMONG THE NEWSPAPERS.

Christmas Seals An Investment.

It is a good thing to remember that the Red Cross Christmas seals are one of the best investments in health—in proportion to the actual cost—that anyone can possibly make. Science has demonstrated conclusively that tuberculosis, the world's greatest plague, of which we now have more than a million cases in the United States alone, can be prevented if these consumptives are properly cared for. In other words, every consumptive, properly cared for, insures your life against tuberculosis by the prevention of further infection from that source. Red Cross seals help to provide hospitals, day camps, sanatoria, dispensaries, open-air schools and visiting nurses for the care, cure and prevention of tuberculosis in this community. Every seal you buy, then, is a sound investment in your own health and in that of your family. Buy your Red Cross seals now to help to protect your home from disease.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

A Few Lines of Thought.

Here are some thoughts given out by Bishop C. P. Anderson of the Episcopal church of Chicago in an address at Madison: "The young men of today that are fit physically and morally for matrimony are met only here and there."

"We are living in a period of reaction against too much individualism, but this reaction is carrying with it a loss of individualism. Most of us would be ashamed if we stopped to think how little we do on our own initiative. When the crowd cheers, we cheer, when the crowd hisses, we hiss."

"The time has come that young men of education, character and principle must enter into politics."—Eau Claire Leader.

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE.

SAFETY FIRST!

Whenever the big men of the railroads gather nowadays—the men of the keen, clear cut faces and the searching eyes—and talk of the operation of the roads one is very apt to hear:

"Safety first! Speed afterward!"

The day of the eighteen hour train between New York and Chicago has passed away, perhaps forever. Too many trains derailed by rails unable to stand the terrible pressure of steel trains passing over them at unsafe speed—too many smashed cars in the ditch!

Nowadays men talk of signals and block systems and improved methods of building cars and locomotives rather than of sending trains at terrific haste around curves and on the long level stretches of track.

The death rate is still too high, but men versed in such matters believe it will go down. The margin of security is widening with the precautions being taken to insure safety on the rail.

Signs are not wanting that along the road of life the same thing is happening. Not many men speak as did the young millionaire the other day when he said:

"When I want to get anywhere I want to get there in a hurry. If the express trains are not fast enough I order specials. I want my automobile to be the fastest one that the builder can supply. That's the way to live—speed up and get there!"

While you skim along the road and make the other fellow take your dust speed is delectable. And it is pleasant to "get there," to be the first on the scene.

But suppose you never get there? Suppose your train of life is derailed and wrecked and you are thrown, dying or dead, into a ditch? Suppose the wheel of your hundred horsepower car skids and you are thrown out against a telegraph pole, to have your name added to the list of victims of speed?

Slow up a bit in the ride of life. The goal is not so distant that you must burn up the road to get there.

See the scenery of life as you pass through it. If you keep your nose on the steering wheel you miss the pleasant hills that lie between you and the horizon. You cannot live your life as you should if you are too much intent on getting through with it as fast as possible.

Pause to admire the flowers of life that bloom along the way.

Whatever your business in life may be, it surely does not lie within your duties to ignore everything save getting finished with it.

In Praise of Poverty.

It seems a matter of universal desire that poverty should be abolished. We should be quite willing to abolish luxury, but to abolish honest, industrious, self-denying poverty would be to destroy the soil upon which mankind produces the virtues which enable our race to reach a still higher civilization than it now possesses.—Andrew Carnegie.

MOVING PICTURE MEN ATTEND STATE MEET

State Meeting of "Movie" Owners Opens at Oshkosh Today—Will Re-organize State League.
Moving picture theatre owners of this city are directly interested in the state meeting of the Wisconsin Motion Picture Exhibitor League which will be held at Oshkosh today and tomorrow. Brown, manager of the Lyric and Majestic theatres, left this morning to attend the convention.

The "movie" men will re-organize their league and probably will apply for a new charter under the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. The theatres owned by the exhibitors at the national convention at New York and the Wisconsin charter was annulled. An effort is being made to connect every exhibitor in the state who are not connected with the film company or exchange. This effort is to break the so-called film trust who are said to have gained a monopoly on the films making exorbitant prices for their film rent. The matter of state censorship will be taken up to protect the state exhibitors and the fixing of a standard of the number of reels to be run for a fixed sum will be considered.

There will also be conducted an exhibit of machinery and appliances used in the business. Over one hundred delegates are expected to be in attendance for the important session.

ALLOWED TWO WEEKS TO PAY ASSESSMENT

If Certificates for Street Improvements are Unpaid at That Time Funds Will be Issued.

Property owners on North and South Division streets, Garfield avenue and Vista avenue, where paving work has been completed this fall, will be allowed two weeks in which to pay the certificates assessed against them for the improvements. At the end of that time the city will issue street improvement bonds for the amounts which remain unpaid and the contractors will secure their payment from the sale of the bond issue. Such bonds will run for five years and will draw interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, and will be assessed against the various delinquent property owners who must pay the same with accrued interest within their taxes in five annual installments. Not a few of the property owners on the streets that have been paved this year have already settled the charges assessed against them. City officials point out the economy of paying the charges at this time because if bonds are issued there is no opportunity offered for the payment of the entire amount, one fifth being paid each year.

CALL MANY WITNESSES IN CONTESTED WILL CASE

Further witnesses were heard today in the case of Oscar L. Dudley vs. R. M. Richmond, executor, at which is being tried before Judge Grimm in the circuit court. Testimony for the plaintiff will probably be completed some time late today and witnesses for the defense may be called tomorrow. Dr. E. H. Dudley, brother of the plaintiff and his daughter, Mrs. Heath, were among the witnesses who testified this afternoon.

NEW PLUMBING LAW MEETS DISAPPROVAL

Mayor Fathers Receives Letters from Other Cities Condemning Law Providing for Inspector.

In response to letters sent out by Mayor Fathers asking for opinions and comments on the new plumbing license and inspection law passed at the last session of the legislature, replies have been received from officials at Grand Rapids, Appleton, and Van Nuys, all of which condemn the new act as an unnecessary burden on the cities of the state.

In addition to the part of the statute which provides for the licensing of master plumbers, journeymen plumbers and plumbing contractors, there is a section which provides for inspectors of plumbing, who shall be practical plumbers in cities of the first, second and third class.

The law provides for their duties as follows: "They shall inspect all plumbing work in the city for which appointed, whether such work be new or consist of alterations and repairs, and shall report to said board (board of public works) all violations of any law, ordinances or by-laws relating to such work and perform such other appropriate duties as may be required."

That there would not be sufficient work to keep such an official employed for his entire time and that it would cost the city an unnecessary sum to secure a practical plumber to do such work, are two of the objections to the law which are pointed out by Mayor Fathers and with which the officials in the other cities agree.

In this city a practical plumber in connection with the water mains is kept in the city engineer's office as provided by a city ordinance and practically every detail of the law with the exception of the actual inspection work is now looked after under the present system.

The cities of the state are holding off in the appointment of an inspector of plumbing, until a plumbing code which is now being prepared by the state board of health, is received under which the inspection work can be accomplished.

In the opinion of Mayor Fathers it should be possible for the city to have a plumbing inspector who might be employed at other duties when not engaged in his inspection work, preferably some one connected with the city engineer's office or the health department, where there is a large amount of work which requires attention.

The inspection of new plumbing or changes in old plumbing would take but a small part of the official's time in a city such as Janesville where there is not a large amount of building in any one year.

City officials throughout the state are awaiting some sort of a solution of this problem from the state board of health before proceeding with appointments.

EXPECT TO ORGANIZE FLOURISHING AGENCY

Janesville Merchants and Business Men Will Be Benefited by New Association.

Janesville merchants and business men and their patrons as well will reap the benefits of the retailers' association which is being organized by George A. Delf and A. Jacobson, representatives of the national society of merchants and retailers.

The membership list has grown rapidly and the majority of the merchants have already been enrolled. It is planned to secure the services of professional men as members and a committee of retailers will be appointed immediately after the holidays to aid the organizers in their work.

If the collection agency part of the program which appeals to the retailers and the association promises to save them much in the way of bad bills. The system of wiping out book accounts and clearing up old debts has already been put into operation and merchants report that the returns have been large, even on this short trial.

It will cut down the high cost of "living" declared one of the organizers. "For it is a fact that the patrons who pay cash suffer because of others who are continually running bills for long periods. By means of our plan such losses will be gradually eliminated and the credit accounts will be an asset to the merchants instead of a liability."

Our entire stock at 20 per cent discount. The luxury of oriental rugs and the magnificence of our collections stand out prominently with holiday gift possibilities. Our stock still bears regular price tickets and per cent will be deducted at time of purchase.

Superb rugs in small and room sizes.

TELEPHONE FOR TRAINS

Wires From Car Connected With Wires Along Track.

At first thought the announcement that a Canadian has invented a telephone for use on trains seems marvelous, but it is really quite simple. The circuit wires of the phone on the train are fastened to a shaft, which has a pair of hooked wires at the top. These latter hook on the main line wires that run alongside the railroad tracks, in exactly the same way as repair machines on trolley roads.

MUST STOP TO USE PHONE.

get their power—from the feed wire. The trolley men use a similar shaft. Of course, the train telephone cannot be used while the train is in motion, so it is scarcely feasible for general use on passenger trains, but for emergency use, or in cars used by officials of the road who may need to speak to distant points, it is very convenient.

OFF SEASON WEATHER HITS TOBACCO CROPS

Are Not Properly Cured and Dealers
Refuse to Accept Except Subject to Sorting.

Tobacco buyers are refusing to receive all crops of tobacco that have been harvested late and medium late which have been taken down and packed by the growers. In a few cases in the northern part of the state such crops have been accepted, but only at decided reductions in the contract price.

These two grades of the weed have not been a sufficient time in the shed, and owing to the wet weather did not dry sufficiently in the stems and stalks to make the crop in fit shape for packing.

The crops that have been received are all taken subject to sort and will be specially treated by the growers in their warehouses before being sorted. The main trouble appears to be that the leaf is too wet. Even the day or two of frost this last week was not sufficient to dry up the stalks and they are soft in the butts and not thoroughly cured. When it is considered that the crop was harvested there have been but five days which is called curing weather, that is, freezing, that October and November were both mild and December bids fair to follow suit, this means a serious delay in handling the crop. It will also work a decided hardship on the dealers, who employ hundreds of girls in the warehouses springing and the winter is the best time to secure them. It will also mean a lean winter for the tobacco workers, who had counted on steady employment during December, January, February and March. Now it will have to go over into the spring and summer months will run late into the summer.

Dealers have been notifying the growers throughout the state that they must not take their tobacco down and that if they have they must pile the bundles on a dry floor two layers deep to thoroughly dry out during the next two months before it will be accepted. Farmers who sold their crops at good figures are disappointed at the prospect of having to wait months for their pay and there is considerable grumbling over the refusal of the dealers to rescind from their position of refusing to accept crops in the present condition.

The earlier tobacco is in fairly good shape and is coming in slowly.

CUT DOWN EXPENSES IS CRY AT MADISON

Committee of School Men Will Seek Greater Economy in Purchase of State Supplies.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 16.—That every method may be employed to reduce the expenses at the various state institutions and to secure greater efficiency, H. C. Rumpas, business manager of the university, Matt Tappins, secretary of the state board of control and Theodore Korschage, chairman of the board of normal school regents, will hold regular meetings to discuss methods of purchasing supplies for the different state institutions. At the last meeting the question of the management of the heating plants at the different state institutions received attention. It is hoped that under this "efficiency arrangement" the committee will be able to reduce expenditures, said Mr. Tappins today.

Now Here's Economy.
A decrease of exactly 50 percent in the number of employees in the department, an increase of 25 percent in the volume of business, and a decrease of 54 percent in salaries are shown in a statement by the state land commissioners made to the board of public affairs. It also shows that the number of school district loans made in 1903-04 was 750 for a total of $874,326, while in 1912-13 the number of loans was 966 and the amount involved $2,130,406, while the amount received for all funds during the same period increased from $297,211 for the former period to $387,755 for the latter. In 1903-04 the number of employees in the department was six and the total salaries paid $7,888, while in 1912-13 the number of employees three and the salaries aggregate $2,600.

INHERITANCE TAXES SHOW BIG INCREASE

$150,000 More to State from This Source Than Last Year is Only a Drop in the Bucket.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 16.—Nearly $150,000 more was collected in inheritance taxes by the state this year than in the preceding year. For the year ending June 30, 1913, the receipts were $124,736.66. On the same date in 1912 they amounted to $783,528.90. Since the law was passed in 1907 the sum of $4,175,557.63 has accrued to the state from this source. Out of the total taxes collected from estates, 74 percent goes to the counties.

Following are the amounts collected by the state since the law went into effect:

|--------------------------|-------------|
| June 30, 1904 (3 months) | $14,689.14 |
| June 30, 1905 | 125,964.80 |
| June 30, 1906 | 103,954.44 |
| June 30, 1907 | 336,453.39 |
| June 30, 1908 | 245,633.92 |
| June 30, 1909 | 449,300.92 |
| June 30, 1910 | 233,566.97 |
| June 30, 1911 | 843,033.73 |
| June 30, 1912 | 783,528.90 |
| June 30, 1913 | 934,736.66 |

Total.....$4,175,557.63

The last legislature changed the inheritance tax law in some of its minor details but its provisions have had no effect upon the amount of revenue collected. The tax commission attributes the recent increases to a better administration and enforcement.

WILL GIVE ADVICE ON RAILWAY VALUES

Commissioner Erickson Heads Committee of State Commissioners Who Will Aid Federal Probe.

[SPECIAL TO THIS GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 16.—(Halford Erickson of the Wisconsin railroad commission, has been selected as chairman of a committee of state railroad commissioners of the various states to advise and gather information for the interstate commerce commission regarding the valuation of the railroads of the United States. At the recent meeting of the railroad commissioners, the committee was organized. Mr. Erickson was elected as chairman. Mr. Erickson said today that there is little that the states can do until the information regarding the inventories of the various roads is filed.

On Saturday a sub-committee will confer with the interstate commerce commission at Washington regarding the progress of the valuation work. Mr. Erickson said that while in Chicago last week, the commissioners conferred regarding express rates. It has been announced that the interstate commerce commission express rates go into effect Feb. 1, and according to stipulation of the commission the Wisconsin reduced rates go into effect at that time.

On the Spur of the Moment

The Tawngo.
I love to dandle the tawngo,
I love the dizzy whirl
Upon the waxed and slippery floor
With some good-looking girl.
I love to skate around the place
And fall upon my neck,
And glide along upon my face,
There's class to that, by heck!
I dance upon my shoulder blades
On my elbows, too,
In trying out the dances that
The nifty dancers do.
I love to rattle with the gal
And toss her in the air,
And scatter side combs all around
And jar loose all her hair.
Half-Nelson and the hammerlock
Are holds the dancers use,
Sometimes they hop upon their heads,
Sometimes upon their shoes;
The Tango is a lovely thing—
A glorious sight to see
When it is danced with grace
An awkward boob like me.
But I'll keep right on makin'
A durned fool of myself.

FIND SHORT WEIGHT IN SALE OF GRAVEL

State Inspectors Will Insist on Full Measure in Sale of Building Materials.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 16.—State cognizance of short weight in the sale of building materials, including sand, gravel and crushed stone, is being brought to the attention of dealers and contractors by the weights and measures department of the government. It has been customary for many dealers to make their own definition of the quantity constituting the cubic yard, the amount being called 2,500, 2,600 and 2,700 pounds, according to different dealers. The legal quantity is larger than the last named amount. The law fixes a cubic yard at 27 cubic feet.

Chief Inspector F. P. Downing, who is bringing these matters to the attention of dealers, says that many wagons carry sand and other building materials when they are often short. State and city sealers are required to test these vehicles to see that the capacity in cubic yards is plainly and conspicuously marked on one side of the boxes of the vehicles. Some wagon boxes are found short five or six cubic feet on 7.

Chickens at $10 Apiece.
The La Fleche fowls of France, says a writer in the Country Gentleman, are in demand in very wealthy households and in high-class cafes. Fine specimens sometimes bring ten dollars, and a very general price is five dollars each. Probably no other country has a market for chickens at such prices; the French gourmet must have what he wants regardless of cost.

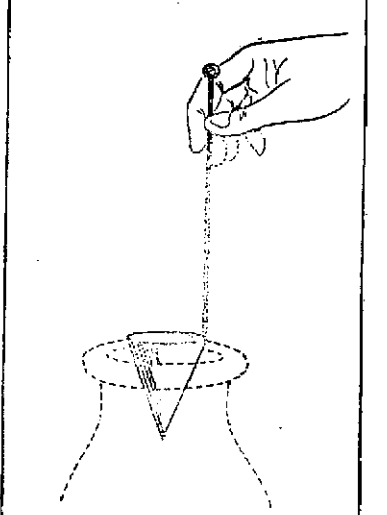

But This Wasn't Mamma.
A little boy, visiting his grandmother, asked for a favor which was refused. Tears and loud wailing followed, but in vain. By and by the little fellow looked up with petulance. "I think it's about time you changed your mind, grandma!" he exclaimed. "It never takes mamma so long to do it when I cry like this."

SKIMMING THE MILK BOTTLE

A Tiny Dipper by Which the Operation is Greatly Facilitated.

The sight of several inches of cream on top of the milk bottle is a sight that few housewives can resist and she will invariably be full for pouring it off and leaving it aside for coffee or tea. In tipping the bottle and allowing the top of the contents the cream spreads over the increased top surface and consequently only a small portion of the cream is secured in this manner.

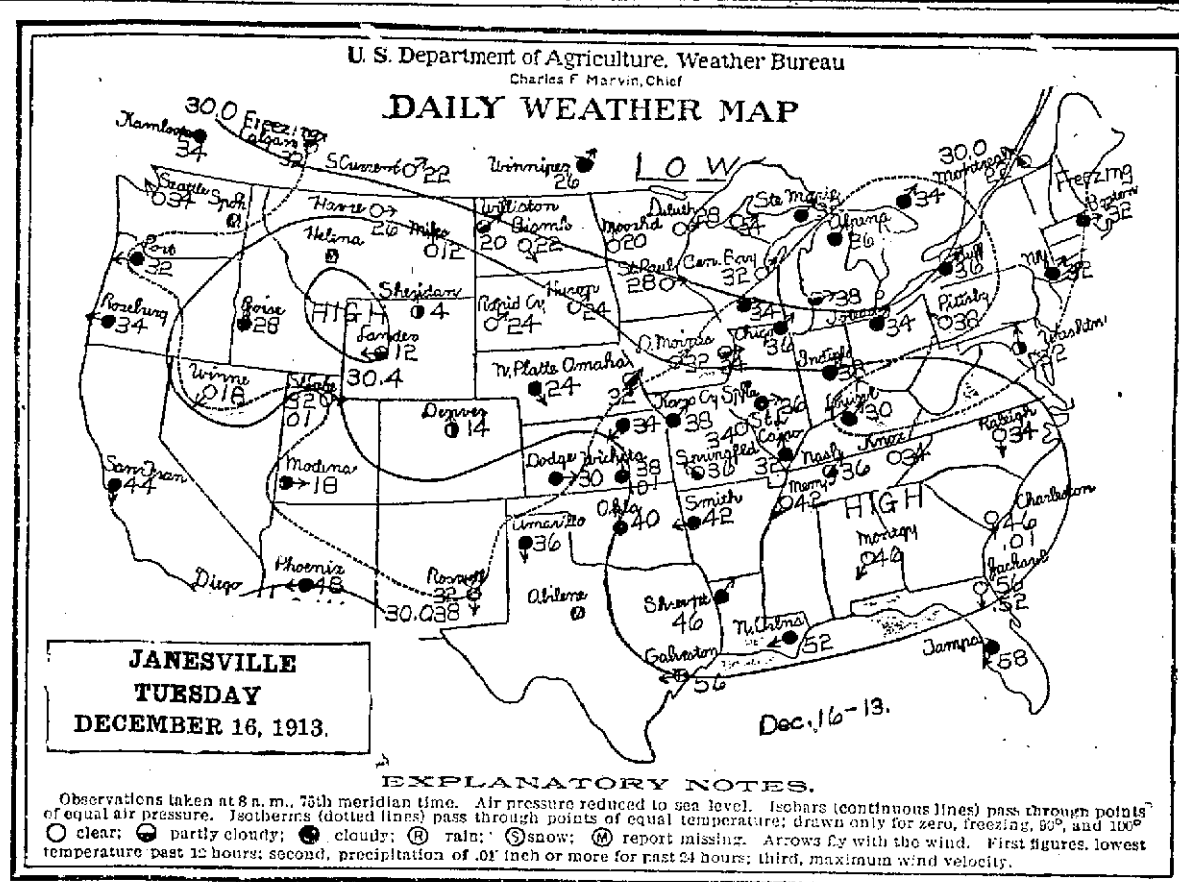

The dipper shown in the accompanying cut has been invented for the purpose of getting the greatest amount of cream from the top of the bottle. Its shape permits of its being dropped through the accumulation of cream without disturbing the latter and as the dipper is lowered below the top the cream flows in and may be readily removed. Practically the full cream content of the bottle may be removed in this manner by repeated dipplings if it is desired to do so.

World's Largest Theater.
The largest theater in the world is the Opera House of Paris. It covers three acres of ground, its cubic mass is 4,287,000 feet and it cost $25,000,000.

December 16, 1913.—There has been practically no change in atmospheric conditions since yesterday. The barometer is still high throughout the interior of the United States, and low in Canada, and in the southwest. Rain has continued falling in the Gulf states, and on the southern plains. Snow was reported in southern New Mexico this morning. There is a "saddle" of lower pressure across the ridge of high barometer over the country. This saddle, which lies between the Great Lakes and the Southern Rockies is the seat of cloudiness, and the light rains and snows on the southern plains.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

REDUCED TO ITS LOWEST TERMS, the real measure of the value of an article to any person is his need for it or desire for it.

If a man were wrecked on a desert island with a pocket full of hundred dollar bills and no matches, he would willingly give some of those bills for a box of matches.

If you discovered late in the evening that you hadn't a stamp to put on that important letter which you had just finished and which must be mailed that night, you would surely be glad to pay many times its price for a stamp.

An ingenious friend of mine, who has not a great deal of Christmas money at her disposal, is going to give several unique gifts this year whose price will be comparatively small, but whose value, measured in the way I have just described, she hopes will be large. She calls them emergency boxes. She buys a pretty box varying in size according to the articles she intends to put in it and fills it with some of these little everyday articles whose absence at a time when one needs them very much and when one is not in a position to get hold of them often causes so much inconvenience and vastly enhances their value.

The nature of these articles varies, of course, according to the person for whom they are intended. The idea came to her one day last winter when one of her friends missed a train because she broke her shoe string at the last moment, and spent some time vainly hunting for another string and more time changing her shoes. "I would have given a dollar for another pair of shoe strings just then," said the girl, and my friend with this vision of the degree to which conditions may enhance values, conceived the idea of the emergency box and began to study her various friends to find out what their particular emergencies might be.

Of course there isn't space to tell you what went into each box, but here is a list of the contents of one of them:

Two pairs of shoe strings, one for high and one for low shoes.
Half a dozen two-cent stamps.
Half a dozen one-cent stamps.
Half a dozen most curls.
Two collar buttons.

A box of the particular brand of hair pins the recipient uses. Each set of articles is marked "To be used only in case of emergency, and replaced." There is room in the box for other articles if the recipient cares to extend the emergency box.

Of course there are some people who would simply use up the articles without waiting for the emergency. But there are others who would do as the donor intended and keep them for an emergency fund. And when the emergency came they would surely bless the donor as heartily as for a much more expensive gift.

For the real measure of the value of an article to any person is his need of it.

MEAT SUBSTITUTE NEEDED FOR A VEGETABLE DINNER

There are very few hotels and restaurants which do not furnish on their bills of fare a "vegetable dinner." This is a great step in catering to the many families who are either entirely or nearly vegetarians and do not care for the meat which has been the usual thing in a public eating place.

If vegetables are properly balanced with a vegetable which will take the place of meat, then it is possible to live on a diet without meat. But we cannot simply cut out meat from our diet and not supply the necessary nitrogenous or muscle building food and build for health and efficiency.

Lentils With Rice.
Materials—Lentils, one-half cup; milk, one-half cup; water, one-half cup; boiled rice, one cup; curry powder, one teaspoonful; onion, one-half; leaf, one; butter or vegetable fat, one tablespoonful; lemon juice, one tablespoonful; salt and pepper.

Directions—Wash and soak the lentils over night in milk or water. Melt the butter or vegetable fat in the spider; add the sliced onion and cook until a pale yellow, then add curry powder, the given amount of milk, water, seasoning and lentils. Simmer two hours, covered, and add the lemon juice just before serving.

Materials—Milk, one-half cup; graham flour, one and one-half cups; butter, one-quarter cup; egg, one; soda, one teaspoonful; chopped dates or figs, one cup.

Directions—Melt the butter in a sauce pan and add the molasses, milk, egg well beaten and the dry ingredients, well mixed and sifted also dates or figs. Turn into a well greased mold, cover and steam for two and one-half hours. Serve with hard or lemon sauce. Figs or dates are more easily handled cut rather than chopped.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it right for a doctor to hug and kiss girls and young married women when they call at his office and call them pet names and tell them how pretty they are and what a pretty form they have, and ask them to come again when he knows it isn't necessary? Don't you think it is a shame for him to tell us how he loves a pretty woman and wags his tongue at our young women and he is over fifty—and very honestly, too? He has one teaspoonful of onion, one-half leaf, one; butter or vegetable fat, one tablespoonful; lemon juice, one tablespoonful; salt and pepper.

Such a man ought to be in jail. He is a menace to the community. Perhaps his wife already knows all about it, and cannot stop him. The women whom he has insulted should get together, consult a lawyer, and have the doctor arrested. Also, complain to the State Medical society, which will undoubtedly discipline him, as other doctors will not stand for that sort of man if they know the truth.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of nineteen years, am a blond and considered to be quite a beauty. I am a cripple, which spoils my looks (I have curvature of the spine). Now there is a young man who started to flirt with my friend and me. He always waves and smiles at us whenever he sees us and we do the same. When we get on the same car with him we always exchange a few words and he seems to pay more attention to me than my friend.

I dress neatly and nicely and try to look as nice as I can.

Now, dear Mrs. Thompson, you know I am just in love with this man. I am always thinking about him and even dream about him. I don't know if it's his looks or not that fascinate me. How can I try and win this man's love?

(2) He is between twenty-five and thirty and I am nineteen years. Do you think him too old for me?

(3) Honestly, Mrs. Thompson, you just don't know how I feel sometimes. I get so lonesome. I don't know what to do with myself. Do you think there is anything for me to live for, as I am crippled? It makes me feel like I could kill myself. Do you think a fellow will ever care enough for me to marry me? I have quite a few boy friends, but they don't seem to care as much for me as they do for my friends.

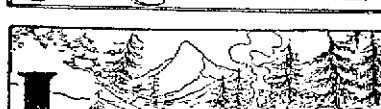

MISS L.

(1) Dear little girl, don't you suppose this man flirts with others, probably as much as he does with you and your friend? Don't you have heart on him. If he is really worth loving and if he cares at all for you be sure he will find a way to know you better. Just be modest and pleasant when you see him; let him see him all the chance he needs. Why, my dear, you do not even know whether he is married or not!

(2) A man of twenty-five would not be too old for you. It is temperament more than age that should be considered.

(3) I know a woman who is so helpless that she must lie in bed all the rest of her life, and most of the time she must spend lying face down. But she is so sweet and tries so hard to be cheerful and of some use in the world that everybody loves her. You are not nearly so badly afflicted. Honey, and some day, I am sure, a good man will love you for yourself. If you will let yourself sweet and cheery and useful.

The Kitchen Cabinet

LOVE is not getting, but giving; not a wild dream of pleasure, and a madness or desire—oh, no, love is not that—it is goodness and honor, and peace and pure living—yes, love is that, and is the best thing in the world, and the thing that lives longest.

—Henry Van Dyke.

GOOD EATS FOR "SPREADS."

Sandwiches, a salad and a hot drink are considered indispensable for a "spread." Of the making of sandwiches there is no end, but perhaps somebody has not yet tried brown bread spread with butter, then a filling of chopped almonds and cucumber, mixed with a small amount of mayonnaise dressing.

For salads, too, there is a host to choose from; there is none which is more delicious than the fruit salad which may be made of almost any combination of fruit in season which blend well, mixed with a little salad dressing and much whipped cream and a few chopped marshmallows.

English Monkey.—This is a cheese dish which is a great favorite and warranted to originate all kinds of dreams. Soak a cupful of bread crumbs in a cup of milk for fifteen minutes. Add a tablespoonful of butter to half a cup of crumbled cheese; stir them in a sauce pan or chafing dish until well melted. To this add the soaked bread and one egg well beaten; salt and cayenne to taste. Cook until creamy. Serve on toast.

Another Nice Sandwich.—Chop two dozen olives, add a teaspoonful of tomato catsup, a pinch of mustard, half a cup of finely cut celery and a half a cup of mayonnaise.

Ham in Jelly.—Put half a glass of currant jelly into a chafing dish with a tablespoonful of butter. When it is hot, lay in thinly sliced cold boiled ham; simmer five minutes and serve with crisp buttered toast.

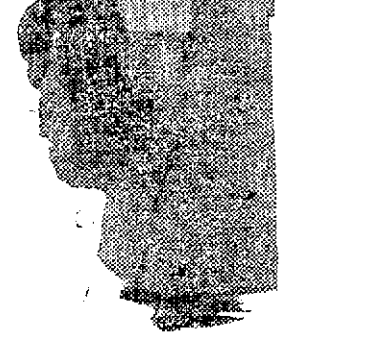

Peanut Brittle.—Melt two cupfuls of sugar in a saucepan, stirring constantly; when a golden brown, pour over a half pound of finely rolled peanuts. Put into a buttered pan and mark off at once. The flatter the peanuts are rolled the nicer the candy.

Glazed Carrots.
Materials—Carrots, four cups; melted fat, four tablespoonfuls; granulated sugar, three tablespoonfuls; stock, four tablespoonfuls.

Directions—Scrape and wash the carrots and cut with a good-sized cutter. Boil slowly in a little good stock until tender, but not overdone. Drain and turn the given amount of carrots into the spider with the butter or vegetable fat. Sprinkle them well with the sugar and shake and stir over the fire until they begin to brown. Add four tablespoonfuls of the stock in which the carrots were cooked, adding more stock as needed and continue stirring until nicely glazed.

Steamed Graham Pudding.
Materials—Milk, one-half cup; graham flour, one and one-half cups; butter, one-quarter cup; egg, one; soda, one teaspoonful; chopped dates or figs, one cup.

Directions—Melt the butter in a sauce pan and add the molasses, milk, egg well beaten and the dry ingredients, well mixed and sifted also dates or figs. Turn into a well greased mold, cover and steam for two and one-half hours. Serve with hard or lemon sauce. Figs or dates are more easily handled cut rather than chopped.

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
Household china is apt to get chipped at the tips in the kitchen. Cut two small pieces of rubber tubing and slip one over each of the faucets at the sink. This will prevent such accidents. When preparing chicken or turkey for roasting, rub the inside with a piece of lemon. It will whiten the flesh and make it more tender.

For stuffed beet for a salad boil the beets, cut out the middle and fill the hole with chopped potatoes and cucumber. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

When washing china silk never hang it up to dry, but instead wring it out dry and wrap it in a piece of white material, leaving it this way for about an hour. Then iron it.

THE TABLE.
Tomato Omelet.—Beat and chop four tomatoes. Soak a cupful of bread crumbs in a cup of milk and the chopped tomatoes, season to taste, and turn into a frying pan in which two tablespoonfuls of butter have been melted. Cook until set, turn upon a hot platter, pour tomato sauce about the omelet and serve at once.

Squash Papacakes.—Boil and mash two squashes and when cold heat into them two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, a pint of milk, two eggs, and a cupful of flour in which has been sifted a teaspoonful of baking powder. Heat hard for five minutes. Have a saucepan with cold water on the fire, add a pint of hot salted water until soft. Drain and dry off. Stir into it a big spoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of onion juice and the beaten yolks of two eggs with salt and pepper to taste. Stir over the fire in a bowl set in boiling water for two minutes, using a fork that you may not break the rice to pieces. Turn into a rounded bottom saucepan, cover and press down hard. Reverse the bowl on a fireproof platter, cover with a cloth, thickly with a meringue made of the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and set upon the top of the pan for the oven for three minutes to form. Eat with drawn butter.

Egg Soup.—In a double boiler heat a quart of milk into which you have stirred a pinch of soda and a minced onion. Rub to a paste a tablespoonful each of butter and flour and stir into the milk. Season with pepper and salt to taste. Lay six poached eggs in the bottom of a tureen and when the white soup is smooth and cream-like, pour it carefully over the eggs.

Honey Gingerbread.—Warm a generous half cupful of butter and beat into it two scant cupfuls of strained honey. When you have a light cream, beat in one tablespoonful of powdered sugar, a tablespoonful of ginger and half a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Now add the beaten yolks of four eggs and, alternately with the frothed whites, three even cupfuls of flour sifted twice with a teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat hard for one minute and bake in buttered shallow pans in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes. Keep covered for thirty minutes.

Soft White Filling for Layer Cake.—Make a syrup of a cupful of granulated sugar and a third of a cupful of water and simmer over the fire until it threads. Beat the whites of two eggs stiff and add a generous pinch of cream of tartar and beat steadily while you pour in the hot syrup. Do not cease beating until it is like a thick white paste; then flavor with vanilla or lemon and spread at once on the layer cakes.

Snow Pudding.—Soak a half package of gelatine for two hours in enough water to cover it. At the end of the two hours add to the gelatine a cupful of granulated sugar and the juice of one lemon, and pour upon these two cupfuls of boiling water. Stir until the gelatine is dissolved, strain and set aside to cool. Beat the whites of three eggs to a stiff meringue, and when the jelly is cold and begins to thicken whip it into this meringue. Beat from fifteen to twenty minutes, or until the mixture is like a stiff white foam. Wet a mold with cold water, pour the jelly into this and set in the ice. When you are ready to serve the pudding, turn it out upon a chilled dish and eat with sugar and cream, or with soft mustard.

Chocolate Fudge.—Boil together a cupful of sugar, one cupful of grated chocolate, one-half cupful of milk, one-quarter of a cupful of molasses. Boil, stirring often, until a little hardens in cold water. Remove from the fire, beat in a teaspoonful of vanilla, stir for a minute and turn into a buttered pan.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People
BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

When time is short the quickest gift to turn off is a guest towel, and every housekeeper is always glad to receive one of these dainty towels. Three yards of damask will make four of these towels and the scalloping and initialing may be done with pencil and done by hand in almost no time. Huckaback done in cross-stitch also makes a pretty towel that is easily finished.

Little glass trays are attractive gifts and if made at home the cost is trifling. Buy a cheap picture with the frame the size and shape you desire for the tray. Remove the picture and place a piece of gray cretonne or embroidery under the glass. Replace the back and put a piece of green felt under the frame, which will at once make the tray neat and prevent it from scratching the surfaces on which it may be placed.

Little brass handles, which can be bought at a hardware store, will make a pretty finish and will not be a great additional expense.

The poppy pin cushion is extremely new and smart and is made of a wooden huckaback. These wooden frames are purchased at any fancy work store and are good imitations of large poppies: the top to be a smaller poppy and the center a large one.

The flowers at the base can be three in number. Around the padded satin center are the petals. The center is made by a ball of cotton, the silk curved over it and sewed at the base. Ribbon is gathered one-fourth of an inch from the edge, attached to the base of the padded center and wound about it in three layers to give the petal effect.

The care forms are placed around the base after the stem is wrapped by the ribbon from base to top. A long piece of ribbon is shirred and wound around itself, as the shirred roses are made, the lower edge sewed and made just to the top, but pins with black, white and colored tops in the center of each flower at the base and you will have finished as pretty and novel a pin cushion as one can find.

These floral pin cushions are made to represent other flowers and it is a nice plan to scent them with sachet powder suited to the flower. The favorite flower of the one for whom the gift is intended can be used in designing the cushion, making of it a gift that will be appreciated and kept long after the useless trifles so often listed as fancy work are discarded and forgotten.

For the girl friend who seems to have most everything one of the best high necked brassieres for wear under too transparent frocks might be a wise choice. Allover embroidery makes the lower portion of the brassiere which is joined to the dainty guimpe-like section with a wide heading, through which a ribbon is run.

COST DAD $3,000 TO CHRISTEN THIS BOY

Mrs. George Moy Way and Dick Wah Moy.

Five hundred men, women and children were guests at the christening the other day in Chicago of Dick Wah Moy, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moy Way of the Windy City.

The festivities included a series of sumptuous banquets, at which bird's nest soup, sweet ginger and all the rest of the fixings of a Flowery kingdom table were served. Papa Moy Way, who is the manager of a Chinese importing company, footed the bill of $3,000.

Years Have Made Little Change.
"Do you act toward your wife as you did before you married her?" "Exactly. I remember just how I used to act when I first fell in love with her. I used to hang over the fence in front of her house and gaze at her shadow on the curtain, afraid to go in. And I act just the same way now when I get home late."

Explaining Moss.
"Now, Thomas," said the teacher to a small pupil in the primary class, "can you tell me what moss is?" "Yes, ma'am," replied the little fellow; "it's something that a rolling stone does not gather."

New Theory as to Lightning.
That lightning flashes appear to zigzag is an optical illusion, according to a German scientist, who says the effect is produced by the eyes twitching when flashes occur.

SCALY PSORIASIS ON ARMS AND LIMBS

Small Dots Grew Larger, Scales Formed, Looked Horrible, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Troop H. 6th U. S. Cavalry, Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis.—"I was troubled with psoriasis for nearly two years. Portions of my arms and limbs were affected mostly with it. It appeared in scaly form, breaking out in very small dots and gradually grew larger and white scales formed when about the size of an ordinary match-head. The looks of it was horrible, which made it very unpleasant for me. It itched a little at times.

"I tried several remedies, but the trouble seemed to grow worse instead of better, and I tried several treatments which cured me for a month, but it always broke out again. One day a friend saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the paper and I sent for a sample. They helped me, so I purchased two more boxes of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they completely cured me. I took three months for Cuticura Soap and Ointment to complete my cure." (Signed) Walter Mahony, Oct. 22, 1912.

Although the Cuticura Soap and Ointment are most successful in the treatment of affections of the skin, scalp, hair and hands, they are also most valuable for everyday use in the toilet, bath and nursery, because they promote and maintain the health of the skin and hair from infancy to age. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Persons who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

INSPIRATION

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slawh."

INSPIRATION is a sort of intoxication which doesn't leave a headache the morning after.

It is not taken into the alimentary canal, but into the mind. Under the influence of inspiration a man doesn't take off his hat and yell. He takes off his coat and works. He is twice as wise and four times as industrious as he was before; and when the inspiration has worn off and he looks at the results of his labors he wonders if D. Webster or T. Edison have been subbing for him.

Inspiration enables a plain man to take a binful of ordinary, shop-worn words and string them together into orations that will make the listener go home for his gun and spend the rest of his life chasing tyrants without pay. It causes the careless young man to sell his billiard cue and pester his boss for more work until the latter makes him a partner in order to keep him busy. It turns a frock coat full of minister into a blazing battery of red hot words which keep the devil dodging twenty-five hours a day. Inspiration is to a man what gasoline has been to the aeroplane. It has enabled him to get his feet out of the ground.

Inspiration is produced in a great many different ways. Sometimes it has to be planted in the brain like a bit of yeast in a pan of dough. A pair of unusually handsome eyes belonging to a girl will often give a man enough inspiration to last until long after the last baby begins to walk. Sermons keep some men grabbing at stars, while others get about three fingers of energy out of the finger section of the morning newspaper and go down town each day firmly resolved to become millionaires before night.

There is still another way of producing inspiration, which has been used for many centuries with great effect. If a stout board is applied to a lazy mule at the psychological moment he will often perform feats which make him seem inspired. There are many men who can be inspired, but sermons or exhortation or underdressed uplift editorials will have no effect upon them. In such cases a swift scientific kick, verbal or otherwise, will often awaken them after a refreshing slumber of many records while chasing the procession.

Some fullers are naturally quite, but as a rule the close mouthed fuller is either stupid or hampered for information. None but the brave kill live with the fair.

HE VENTURED HIS LIFE

By S. V. LEVIS.

There wasn't a thing against Bessie Hicks, excepting the fact that her aging father was only a flagman at the railroad crossing, and he was rather a forlorn figure in his shabby coat with its one empty sleeve.

At any rate, four or five of the girls who attended the village school evidently considered it obligatory to ignore Bessie in their recess games, judging from the slights they thrust upon her.

However, Bessie's deportment was something to be emulated with profit; moreover, she was an apt pupil; and even in a school yard may be found a goodly percentage of young people to whom qualities of heart and mind appeal before mere external.

"Shucks!" ejaculated Lena White, "Edna Larkin needn't consider herself so superior to Bessie. She's way below her in class—always is, dear knows; besides, she hasn't half her good manners."

The four or five "best dressers" had a most exclusive time of it, so it was not the flagman's little girl who had caused to complain of loneliness, by any means.

With the older children at school, the tots at home were sometimes permitted to play in a neighbor's back yard. They required watching, too, sometimes more than they got, for the straying instinct is particularly strong in some wee ones.

That this was true of at least two playmates, the small maids in question were to demonstrate soon, for, hand in hand, they managed to elude their elders, and were heading straight for the "railroad track," as Doty pronounced it.

The screech of a locomotive whistle was sufficient to prevent Doty's companion from venturing further, so Maizie prudently turned back in the direction of home.

The next minute there was a tiny white-garbed figure in the very middle of the track right above the watch box of the old flagman.

The child, bewildered by fright, was uncertain which way to go to get out of the way of the oncoming train.

It took but another moment for the flagman to comprehend the little one's peril, and in the same moment he was racing from his box with the engine well nigh at his heels.

Leaping on the track with the grim, belching monster horribly near him, he had barely time to seize the half-paralyzed toddler by the back of her clothing, and to swing her aside with his one arm, before the train whistled by on its thunderous path.

A few pedestrians who had witnessed the spectacle groaningly turned away their heads to avoid seeing the mangled body of the helpless baby.

Great was their relief, great as was their amazement, when their dazed eyes could assure them of the truth, that the almost-victim had escaped any worse injury than a few bruises!

Excitement ran high among the group of spectators, and while one who recognized the child was taking her to her home, the little knot was presently augmented by the pupils from the school house.

"Who's hurt? What's the matter?" demanded the newcomers, in alarm.

"Couldn't be our Dorothy, could it?" almost screamed Edna Larkin, without waiting for a full account. Her fear-winged feet never halted until they bore her to her home.

"Then she isn't injured. They told the truth. Oh! I thought—"

"Yes," interrupted the neighbor who had carried in the object of solicitude, her escape was miraculous; but even more so was the escape of her rescuer. A braver deed never was performed than his, and physically handicapped as he was, too.

"Her rescuer? I never waited to—" "Flagman Hicks," announced Mrs. Larkin, "I've just been told. Such heroism as his can be repaid never! To him we owe the life of our pet."

Edna went to her room where she might weep unseen. The debt was too much for words!

Give Fruit to Mayor of London.

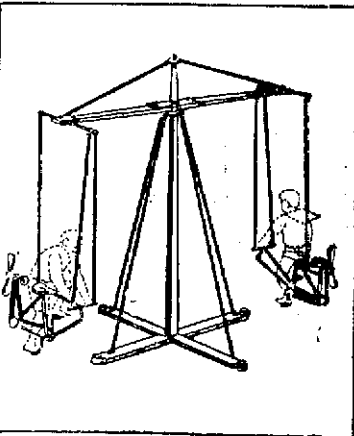

An ancient city privilege was witnessed at London a few days ago, when the lord mayor, Sir David Burnett, was presented by the printers with a fine collection of luscious fruit. The gift marked the continuance of a custom which has existed for many years and is a survival of the days when the lord mayor was entitled to sample all the fruit that came into the city. All the fruit presented recently was grown in England, and most of it came from Kent. Perfectly shaped pineapples, velvety peaches, apples, pears and melons, and, indeed, almost every variety of fruit England can produce were to be seen in the overflowing cornucopia and three large baskets, decorated with carnations and blue silk ribbon in which the gift was contained.

NOVEL MERRY-GO-ROUND.

Riders Pedal to Turn Propellers Which Supply Motive Power.

A novel form of merry-go-round has been devised by an Illinois man. A central mast has a wheel arm swivel mounted on the top. Suspended from the ends of this arm, on long rods, are bicycle frames, with all the characteristics of a bicycle, except the wheels. In place of wheels a propeller is mounted behind the seat, and it is this propeller that is operated by driving the pedals. To use this apparatus two children take seats on the frames and pedal as if they were riding a bicycle. This sets the propellers in motion and the merry-go-round revolves, the swivel mounting imparting a rocking movement in addition to the circular motion. From the hollow length of a yard or so. From the hollow lower end the muskman can then draw out three jointed and collapsible feet, which spread out and form a firm support. From the hollow top of the tube

Whole Structure Can Be Contained in One Small Cylinder.

Hereafter, when you see a muskman with only a small metal tube, in addition to the instrument he plays, do not think that he forgot his stand. This tube, which was devised by an Indiana man, telescopes and can be drawn out to a length of a yard or so. From the hollow lower end the muskman can then draw out three jointed and collapsible feet, which spread out and form a firm support. From the hollow top of the tube the muskman can bring forth more wonders. This contains a sheet music rest, which is also made of pieces of thin metal, jointed, and which folds up into a small compass. Spring connections and thumb-screws at the various joints hold the rest and the feet firmly in open position, so as to guard against the misfortune of having the whole affair collapse at a critical time.

Good Roads First.

If the people have to wait until politics is absolutely pure before getting good roads, it would be wise to import Job to tell them how to do it. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Likely.

Every poor man thinks a good deal of how generous he would be if he had the price, which may be one reason he hasn't.—Atchison Globe.

Classified Want Ad?

"I don't know how I'm ever going to repay my parents for the money they've spent on my business education," said one young girl to another the other morn. "I've tried repeatedly to obtain a position—I don't seem able to get even a small place to start in."

"Did you advertise?" said the young girl addressed, "That's how I got my position and it is really a good one with chance for advancement." "Yes I advertised and I never received even one answer," said the disconsolate one. "How did you advertise?"

"When I finished from Business College I realized that with so many others finishing it was up to me to advertise in a way that would attract attention—and get answers. Something a bit different from a three lines, three times ad. So I wrote a condensed history as it were for the want ad page, telling all my qualifications, my desire to work, my ability to forge ahead. In fact I told most everything I knew about myself so anxious was I to get a position."

It was a large ad and it cost me $2.12 but I received seven answers and decided on my present position."

You see my advertising persistently enabled me to pick my present position."

"I spent a quarter on my advertising campaign and have been at home five weeks getting more discouraged daily. Guess I'll start again and stick 'til I land a position, for the money thus expended is really well spent if it will do for me what it did for you."

"Don't take my word for it, try it and see," said the employed one, as she laughingly bid her friend Good-Bye.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Father at least knows what he DOESN'T want—

By F. LEIPZIGER

Not many of them do. One of the men who take life hard for a statesman is the constituent who imagines that a congressman spends most of his time waiting impatiently for six o'clock so that he can get into his evening clothes.

TO IMPROVE PRETTY HAIR AND BEAUTIFY UGLY HAIR

Harmony Hair Beautifier, a delightful liquid hair dressing, is just what it is named a hair beautifier. No matter how pretty your hair now is, it can be made to look even better by using Harmony Hair Beautifier. To those who mourn because the hair is stringy, dull, lustreless and homely, Harmony Hair Beautifier will prove a real blessing and pleasure. It seems to polish and burnish the hair, making it glossy, silky-soft and more easy to put up in graceful, wavy folds that stay put. It overcomes the oily smell of the hair with a dainty, true-rose fragrance, very pleasant to the user and those around.

Very easy to apply—simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. It contains no oil, and will not change the color of the hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, 50c. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Cheap and Easily Made, But Ends a Cough Quickly

How to Make the Very Best Cough Remedy at Home. Fully Guaranteed.

This pint of cough syrup is easily made at home and saves you about $2.00 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It relieves obstinate coughs—even whooping cough—quickly, and is splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, spasmodic croup and hoarseness.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two, or three hours. Tastes good.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in quinine and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this mixture, although strained honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup remedy. The plan has often been initiated, but the successful combination has never been equaled. Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

WITHIN THE LAW

By MARVIN DANA
FROM THE PLAY OF BAYARD VEILLER

Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly company.

Even as he asked the question the quick sobering of his face bore witness to his disappointment over not finding his father in the office. And in the patent chagrin under which the son now labored was to be found a certain indication of character not to be disregarded. Unlike many a child, he really loved his father. The death of the mother years before had left him without other opportunity for affection in the home, since he had neither brother nor sister.

In that simple and sincere regard which he bore for his father, the boy revealed a heart ready for love, willing to give of itself its best for the one beloved. Beyond that as yet there was little to be said of him with exactness. He was a spoiled child of fortune, if you wish to have it so. Certainly, he was only a drone in the world's hive. Thus far he had enjoyed the good things of life without ever doing ought to deserve them by contributing in return, save by his smiles and his genial air of happiness.

In the twenty-three years of his life every gift that money could lavish had been his. If the sum total of benefit was small, at least there remained the consoling fact that the harm was even less. Luxury had not sapped the strength of him. He had not grown vicious, as have so many of his fellows among the sons of the rich.

Sarah explained that Mr. Gilder had been called to the court of general sessions by the judge.

"But what is he doing in court?"

Sarah explained the matter with her usual conciseness:

"One of the girls was arrested for stealing."

"And dad went to court to get her out of the scrape. That's just like the old man."

"She was tried today and convicted. The judge sent for Mr. Gilder to come down this morning and have a talk with him about the sentence."

There was no lessening of the expression of certainty on the young man's face. He loved his father, and he trusted where he loved.

"It will be all right," he declared in a tone of entire conviction. "Dad's heart is as big as a barrel. He'll get her off."

Then of a sudden Dick gave a violent start. He leaned toward the secretary's desk and spoke with a new seriousness of manner:

"Sadie, have you any money? I'm broke. My taxi has been waiting outside all this time."

"Why, yes," the secretary said cheerfully.

Dick eagerly seized the banknote offered him.

"Mighty much obliged, Sadie," he said enthusiastically. "But I must run. Otherwise this wouldn't be enough for the fare." And he darted out of the room.

CHAPTER II.
Only Three Years.

WHEN at last the owner of the store entered the office his face showed extreme irritation.

"What did they do with the Turner girl?" his secretary inquired in an elaborately casual manner.

Gilder did not look up from the heap of papers, but answered rather harshly:

"I don't know—I couldn't wait," he said. He made a petulant gesture as he went on, "I don't see why Judge Lawlor bothered me about the matter. He is the one to impose sentence, not I. I am hours behind with my work now."

Edward Gilder was a big man physically, plainly the possessor of that abundant vital energy which is a prime requisite for achievement in the ordering of modern business concerns.

Force was indeed the dominant quality of the man. His tall figure was proportionately broad, and he was heavily fleshed. In fact the body was too ponderous. Perhaps, in that characteristic might be found a clue to the chief fault in his nature. For he was ponderous, spiritually and mentally, as well as materially. The fact was displayed suggestively in the face, which was too heavy with its prominent jaws and aggressive chin and rather bulbous nose. But there was nothing flabby anywhere.

It was with his accustomed blandness of manner that he presently acknowledged the greeting of George Demarest, the chief of the legal staff that looked after the firm's affairs.

"Well, Demarest?" he inquired.

"Judge Lawlor gave her three years," Demarest replied gravely. It was plain from his manner that he did not altogether approve.

"Good!" Gilder exclaimed. "Take this, Sarah." And he continued, as the girl opened her notebook and poised the pencil, "Be sure to have Smithson post a copy of it conspicuously in all the girls' dressing rooms and in the reading room and in the lunchrooms and in the assembly room." He cleared his throat ostentatiously and proceeded to the dictation of the notice:

"Mary Turner, formerly employed in this store, was today sentenced to prison for three years, having been convicted for the theft of goods valued at over $400. The management wishes again to draw attention on the part of its employees to the fact that honesty is always the best policy. Got that?"

"Yes, sir."

"Take it to Smithson," Gilder continued, "and tell him to post it at once."

Gilder brought forth a box of cigars from a drawer of the desk, opened it and thrust it toward the waiting lawyer, who, however, shook his head in refusal and continued to move about the room rather restlessly.

"Three years—three years! That ought to be a warning to the rest of the girls," Gilder looked toward Demarest for acquiescence.

"Most unusual case, in my estimation," Demarest replied. "You see, the girl keeps on declaring her innocence. That, of course, is common enough in a way. But here it's different. The point is somehow she makes her protestations more convincing than they usually do. They ring true, as it seems to me."

"The stolen goods were found in her locker," Gilder declared in a tone of finality. "Some of them, I have been given to understand, were actually in the pocket of her coat."

"Well," the attorney said, with a smile, "that sort of thing makes good enough circumstantial evidence, and without circumstantial evidence there would be few convictions for crime. Yet as a lawyer I'm free to admit that circumstantial evidence alone is never quite safe as proof of guilt. Naturally she says some one else must have put the stolen goods there. That is quite within the measure of possibility. That sort of thing has been done countless times."

"And for what reason? It's too absurd to think about."

"In similar cases," the lawyer answered, "those actually guilty of the thefts have thus sought to throw suspicion on the innocent in order to avoid it on themselves when the pursuit got too hot on their trail. Some-

"Nowadays," Demarest shot out, "we don't call them courts of justice; we call them courts of law."

"Anyway," Gilder declared, becoming genial again, "it's out of our hands. There's nothing we can do now."

"Why, as to that," the lawyer replied, with a hint of hesitation, "I am not so sure. You see, the fact of the matter is that, though I helped to prosecute the case, I am not a little bit proud of the verdict. I am not sure that Mary Turner is guilty—far from it, in fact! Anyhow, the girl wants to see you, and I wish to urge you to grant her an interview."

"What's the use?" Gilder stormed. "I can't have her crying all over the office and begging for mercy," he protested truculently. But a note of fear lay under the petulance.

Demarest's answer was given with assurance.

"You are mistaken about that. The girl doesn't beg for mercy. In fact, that's the whole point of the matter. She demands justice—strange as that may seem in a court of law—and nothing else. The truth is, she's a very unusual girl, a long way beyond the ordinary salesgirl, both in brains and in education."

"The less reason, then, for her being a thief," Gilder grumbled in his heavy-lidded voice.

"And perhaps the less reason for believing her to be a thief," the lawyer retorted suavely. He paused for a moment, then went on. There was a tone of sincere determination in his voice. "Just before the judge imposed sentence he asked her if she had anything to say. You know, it's just a usual form—a thing that rarely means much of anything. But this case was different, let me tell you. She surprised us all by answering at once that she had. It's really a pity, Gilder, that you didn't wait. Why, that poor girl made a fine speech!"

"Pooh, pooh!" came the querulous objection. "She seems to have hypnotized you." Then, as a new thought came to the magnate, he spoke with a trace of anxiety. There were always the reporters looking for space to fill with foolish rappings.

"Did she say anything against me or the store?"

"Not a word," the lawyer replied gravely. "She merely told us how her father died when she was sixteen years old. She was compelled after that to earn her own living. Then she told how she had worked for you for five years steadily without there ever being a single thing against her. She said, too, that she had never seen the things found in her locker. And she said more than that. She asked the judge if he himself understood what it means for a girl to be sentenced to prison for something she hadn't done. Somehow, Gilder, the way she talked had its effect on everybody in the courtroom. I know! It's my business to understand things like that. And what she said rang true. What she said and the way she said it take brains and courage. The ordinary crook has neither. So I had a suspicion that she might be speaking the truth." There was a little pause, while the lawyer moved back and forth nervously; then he added, "I believe Lawlor would have suspended sentence if it hadn't been for your talk with him."

"I simply did my duty," Gilder said. "You are aware that I did not seek any consultation with Judge Lawlor. He sent for me and asked me what I thought about the case—whether I thought it would be right to let the girl go on a suspended sentence. I told him frankly that I believed that an example should be made of her for the sake of others who might be tempted to steal. Property has some rights, Demarest, although it seems to be getting nowadays so that anybody is likely to deny it." Then the freckled, half-alarmed note sounded in his voice again as he continued, "I can't understand why the girl wants to see me."

"Why, she just said that if you would see her for ten minutes she would tell you how to stop the thefts in this store."

"There," Gilder cried. "I knew it! The girl wants to confess. Well, it's the first sign of decent feeling she's shown. I suppose it ought to be encouraged. Probably there have been others mixed up in this."

"Perhaps," Demarest admitted. "At least it can do no harm if you see her. I thought you would be willing, so I spoke to the district attorney, and he has given orders to bring her here for a few minutes on the way to the Grand Central station. They're taking her up to Burnside, you know. I wish, Gilder, you would have a little talk with her." The lawyer abruptly went out of the office, leaving the owner of the store fuming.

"Hello, dad!"

Gilder sprang to his feet, his face suddenly grown younger, radiant.

"Dick!" The big voice was softened to exquisite tenderness.

As the eyes of the two met the boy rushed forward, and in the next moment the hands of father and son clasped firmly. Presently Gilder spoke, with an effort toward harshness in his voice to mask how much he was shaken. But the tones rang more kindly than any he had used for many a day, tremulous with affection.

"What brought you back?" he demanded.

"Why, I just wanted to come back home," he said lightly. "And, for the love of heaven, give Sadie $5. I borrowed it from her to pay the taxi. You see, dad, I'm broke."

"Of course!" With the saying Edward Gilder roared gargantuan laughter. In the burst of merriment his pent feelings found their vent. He was still chuckling when he spoke, sage from much experience of ocean travel. "Poker on the ship, I suppose."

Dinner Stories

A stalwart young German applied for a position on a farm. As he walked into the barn he addressed the farmer: "Hey, mister, will you job me?" "Will I what?" "Will you job me? Make me work yet."

"Oh, I see, you want a job," said the farmer.

"Well, how much do you want a month?"

"I tell you, if you eat me on der farm I come for five dollars, but for twenty-five dollars I eat myself at Schmidt's."

One time an old farmer was driving along the streets of a town when an automobile came up. He got over on the side of the street. As the machine passed him he noticed a motorcycle just behind it. He scratched his head and said, "Well, I'll be gosh darned if I ever knowed that them blasted automobiles had colls."

A little girl who had a live bantam presented to her was disappointed at the smallness of the first egg laid by the bird. Her ideal egg was that of two ostrich, a specimen of which was on a table in the drawing room. One day the ostrich egg was missing from the accustomed place. It was subsequently found near the spot where the bantam nested, and on it was stuck a piece of paper with the words:

"Something like this, please. Keep on trying."

WOOD SCRAPER

Grooved Plate With Blade Inside. Movable Fixed to Plane.

For scraping, or, as the carpenters call it, surfacing wood, a handy tool has been invented by a California man. In appearance it resembles an odd sort of plane, the body having a curved base and an upright vertical blade in back. In fact it has a sloping surface with a stud and thumb screw in the center and it is over this stud that the cutting apparatus fits. This latter consists of a pair of steel plates, with an intermediate plate of softer material. This compound plate is grooved along the edges to form cutting edges and has a slot in the center for its adjustable attachment to the body of the plane. When this tool is properly adjusted it is claimed that a floor can be scraped with it in shorter time and more satisfactorily than with most scrapers.
